Five Mexican States Launch Revolt Against Obregon

REBEL FORCE OF 6,000 IS ADVANCING ON MEXICO CITY

Dispute Arises Over Sovereignty Of States

BATTLE IMPENDS

Federal Troops Are Sent To Engage Revolters

(Reuter American Service)

New York, Dec. 7.—According to despatches from Vera Cruz, five Mexican States are in open rebellion against President Obregon. They have repudiated the Federal Government and replaced federal officeholders.

The Commander of the Gulf Fleet, the Chief of the Marines and General Guadalupe Sanchez have written a letter to President Obregon stating that they have resolved to defend the institutions against which the Obregon Government has been offending in violating the sovereignty of the States and refusing to permit free functioning of their legislative powers.

Two columns, of rebel troops, comprising 6,000 men, are advancing on Mexico City. Fifteen thousand additional men are concentrated at Vera Cruz. All strategic positions have been reinforced.

Reuter's correspondent at Mexico City reports that the Minister of War has despatched three columns of troops from Tampico against the rebel forces under General Sanchez.

She reaches Colombo on January 21, and arrives at Singapore, where she will meet the Durban and Magnolia on February 1.

Adherence Of America To Monroe Doctrine Is Re-Affirmed By Coolidge

(Reuter American Service)

Washington, Dec. 6.—President Coolidge in his first message to Congress re-affirmed the Monroe Doctrine. He declared that America definitely refused to adopt or ratify the Covenant of the League of Nations. The United States favors a permanent world court of justice or a permanent court of international justice "on somewhat different plan, to which we could go but to which we could not be brought."

The President regretted Russia's attitude in refusing to recognise the sanctity of international obligations, adding: "I do not propose to barter away for privileges in trade any of the cherished rights of humanity. I do not propose to make merchandise of any American principles."

The Chief Executive opposed cancellation of the debts of foreign Governments, which, excluding the debt of Britain which had been adjusted, amounted to $7,209,000,000 millions of dollars, besides over $255,000,000 expenses of the army of occupation.

URGES TAX REDUCTION

President Coolidge favored the plan of Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury, for decreased taxes on earned incomes and reduction of charges against moderate incomes from investment. He opposed excess profit taxes in time of peace and also opposed revision of tariffs as disturbing." He favored maintenance of an adequate merchant marine, even if the United States should have to pay the cost of the service.

He declared: "For several years we have been decreasing the personnel of the Army and Navy and we have been reducing their power to the danger point. Further reductions should not be made."

The Army and the Navy should be strengthened. Additional planes were needed for the Army and additional submarines for the Navy. The defences of the Panama Canal must be perfected. "We want no competitive armaments and no more war, but we want no weakness that invites imposition."

LIMIT IMMIGRATION

The Chief Executive favored limiting immigration and added: "Those not wishing to partake in the American spirit ought not to settle in America."

President Coolidge commended to the favorable consideration of the Senate the proposal to support the Permanent Court of International Justice with proposed reservations clearly indicating America's refusal to adhere to the League of Nations.

Referring to Russia, the President said that, while the favor of America was not for sale, he was willing to make very large concessions for the purpose of rescuing the people of Russia. Already encouraging evidences of returning to the ancient ways of society could be detected but more were needed. Whenever there appeared any disposition to compensate despoiled American citizens or to recognise the debt contracted by the new republic of Russia, whenever the active spirit of enmity to American institutions abated and whenever there appeared works meet for repentance, America ought to be the first to go to the economic and moral rescue of Russia. He hoped that the time was near when America could act.

HOUSE IS CROWDED

There was an unusual demand for tickets to the galleries of the House of Representatives to hear President Coolidge. Even standing room was at a premium. A large crowd outside heard the address by means of amplifying devices. The President's declaration in favor of a world court of justice with reservations was received with applause. His declaration against recognition of Soviet Russia, his deprecation of cancellation of war debts and his "unqualified approval" of the Mellon taxation program were also applauded.

Both Houses adjourned until Monday as a token of respect to the memory of President Harding.

In the Senate Senator Irvine L. Lenfoot (Republican) introduced a Bill appropriating $20,000,000 for relief in Germany to be expended under the direction of President Coolidge.

SEN. KING WILL SEEK RELEASE OF PHILIPPINES

Immediate Independence For Islands Is Proposed In New Measure

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Dec. 7.—Senator William H. King of Utah today announced that he had ready for introduction in the United States Senate a bill which would provide complete independence for the Philippines nine months after its passage by Congress.

The general opinion in the capital is that the measure will not find sufficient support to ensure its passage.

Members of both houses, however, welcome this action on the part of Senator King as a means whereby the Philippine situation may be brought before Congress for general discussion and a definite decision reached.

Powers Act Jointly In Demonstrations At Canton

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 7.—While no statement regarding the landing of foreign marines at Canton to protect the Maritime Customs is obtainable from the Waichiaopu, well-informed Chinese circles are of opinion that the Government had previous knowledge of this action on the part of the foreign Powers, and they point out the necessity of maintaining the integrity of this great revenue, dwelling on the present inability of the Government to safeguard its own interests at Canton. Furthermore, it is pointed out that Dr. Sun Yat-sen's forces have recently been increased and that if he should be allowed to handle the Customs revenues they would be used to prosecute hostilities against the Government.

Intelligence from Canton indicates that the foreign Powers are acting jointly.

The present naval concentration at Canton consists of four British vessels, one French, two American and one Japanese, while one Italian gunboat is speeding to join the others.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Dec. 7.—No confirmation of the reported seizure of the Customs House has been received from Canton.

The Canton Gazette, in an editorial article, says: "The people of Kwangtung would suffer untold miseries should trouble arise between the foreign Powers and the Southern Government over the Customs surplus question. Not only will the market here be gravely affected but the market at Shanghai would likewise be thrown into panic. We cannot emphasise the enormity of such a consequence and would caution both sides to proceed very carefully in the interest of millions of innocent Chinese."

DOCTORS TO MEET TODAY TO DISCUSS GOAT GLANDS

Medical Society Will Hold Session This Afternoon

MORE OPPOSITION

Gland Theory Derided By British Physician

The writer of the series of articles now appearing in THE CHINA PRESS on Dr. Brinkley and goat gland transplanting wishes it understood that he is simply writing the stories as a reporter and observer, not as a supporter of Dr. Brinkley or his operation, or as a proponent of the theory. THE CHINA PRESS likewise does not champion Dr. Brinkley's cause, being simply the medium through which both Dr. Brinkley's and his opponents' views are given to a large number interested in the subject in China.

BY LARRY LICHTMAS

The Shanghai Medical Society will hold an extraordinary general meeting at the General Hospital at 5.30 o'clock this afternoon to discuss the coming to Shanghai of Dr. John R. Brinkley, the so-called 'Burbank of humanity,' who arrives tomorrow on the President Jefferson to perform a number of operations in which he transplants the glands of a Toggenburg goat to human beings.

The extraordinary meeting today is an outgrowth of considerable agitation among the physicians and surgeons of Shanghai instigated by news of Dr. Brinkley's coming, and is expected to result in the issuance of a resolution by the Society setting forth their professional views on the subject of gland operation. A canvas of some of the physicians and surgeons of the Society by a representative of THE CHINA PRESS indicates that if a resolution is passed at this afternoon's meeting it will be unfavorable to Dr. Brinkley and his theory of renewing youthful vigor in men and women in whom the fires of youth have turned to ashes.

Considerable interest attaches to the question one doctor told THE CHINA PRESS because of the fact that no license is required to practice medicine in Shanghai. All that is necessary is for the prospective doctor to have certificates from an accredited medical school and be registered in his own Consulate. In the case of Americans, British and French the laws governing medical practice are extremely severe and there is therefore a check on doctors of those nationalities. Among some of the other nationalities, however, the regulations are more lax. It is said the entire situation may be discussed at today's meeting of the medical society and may possibly lead to some definite action along licensing lines being suggested to the Council by the society.

"ONLY A FAD"

One British doctor, interviewed by THE CHINA PRESS yesterday, reiterated what appears to be the general consensus of opinion in Shanghai concerning Dr. Brinkley's operation.

"It has been proven a failure time after time," he said, "to such an extent that the latest works on surgery by internationally accredited authorities barely mention gland operations. It is merely a fad that has passed away everywhere else. China, being out of the beaten path, has been neglected heretofore by gland operators in favor of more lucrative fields.

"Surely all the 110,000,000 people in the United States have not had gland operations? Or the millions in Austria, England, and France—that a surgeon possessing this great secret of revivifying the

COOLIDGE TO HURL HIS HAT INTO THE RING

(Exclusive China Press)

Washington, Dec. 7.—It was learned tonight that friends of President Calvin Coolidge will formally announce Mr. Coolidge's candidacy for the Republican nomination within the next few days. His formal announcement, it is understood, was with-held pending the delivery of his address to the joint session of Congress, and the reception he has received since its delivery has removed the last lingering doubt concerning whether or not he would toss his hat in the ring.

CONSERVATIVES DOWNCAST AS FIRST DAY'S RESULTS SHOW LOSS OF MANY SEATS

Protectionist Policies Of Baldwin Cabinet Believed To Have Been Defeated On Face Of Early Returns Lancashire Comes Out Strongly For Free Trade

On the face of returns available in Shanghai at 8 o'clock this morning, the Conservatives are shown to have suffered severe reverses in the general elections held in England Thursday. Just how much the Conservatives have suffered will not be known until the returns from the country districts, Conservative strongholds, are in. The earlier figures, however, seem to constitute a strong public protest against the Protection policies enunciated by Premier Baldwin and it now seems practically assured that the government party will be unable to muster sufficient votes in Commons to overcome the opposition of the Labor and Liberal elements, both of whom stand firmly for free trade.

Particularly startling were the gains made by Labor. An indication of the manner in which the voting went is seen in the returns available in London at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour the parties stood: Conservatives, 185; Liberals, 86; Labor, 118; Independent, 8. Gains recorded by the various parties were as follows: Conservatives, 7; Liberals, 43; Labor, 46. The losses were: Conservatives, 66; Liberals, 18; Labor, 11; Independents, 1.

In the general election of November, 1922, the Conservatives had 343 seats against 272 for the combined opposition. If the opposing parties, therefore, maintain their present leads, the Conservatives will come far from having a majority in the New Parliament.

Eleven Women Are Defeated

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 7, 1:30 p.m.—Eleven women were defeated yesterday, including Miss Jessie Stephen (Labor) by Major Cayzer (Conservative) at Portsmouth.

Today's declarations opened sensationally with a Liberal gain in the Basingstoke division of Hampshire, which was shortly followed by the announcement that the Labor candidate, Miss Margaret Bondfield, had gained Northampton in a triangular fight. Mr. McCurdy, the former Coalition Liberal Whip, being at the bottom of the poll.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore, Under Secretary for the Colonies, was re-elected for Stafford.

Labor To Rule Soon, Prediction

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 7.—4.15 a.m.

Mr. Clynes, learning of his election for the seventh time, declared that the result indicated that the Labor Party before long would not be His Majesty's Opposition but His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Winston Churchill stated, that, whatever might be the consequences, he would never associate himself with the violent movement of the left nor the extreme reaction of the right. He was certain from the results that protection was broken in pieces.

Mr. Asquith, who was loudly cheered, stated that Paisley was an impregnable citadel of Liberalism. The Liberals throughout the country were routing both protection and socialism.

Conservatives Admit Chagrin

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 7.—

6.5 a.m.

The Conservatives admit a degree of disappointment at the first day's results, especially the adverse turnover which has been accentuated not only in Manchester but in Lancashire generally, nevertheless 350 results remain to be announced and a large proportion of them are county districts, which are traditionally Conservative, where Government supporters profess that they have strengthened their hold by the policy of an agricultural subsidy.

The Streets Of Shanghai

Range Road

By Irene Corbally Kuhn

Range Road. Once upon a time it led to the practice shooting grounds for the riflemen who have now transferred their range to another place but have left the old street in possession of its faded glory. For new Range road is a featureless, formless street, clothed in the dusty red and grey brick habiliments of mediocrity. Here and there is an attempt to preserve its "face" for does not Tang Shao-yi, "China's grand old man" claim Range Road for his residence?

Maybe it was an unconscious attempt at poetic justice that prompted the blood-covered coolie with the loaded barrow to elect Range road for the scene of his "red" operations. What more fitting street, literally, to run with blood, than the one which used to reverberate with the roll of guns, even if only in practise?

For some time we had marked the red drops in the roadway. Scenting a murder in the rue Range or, at least, a good fight, which had been carried on a pied for some distance, we trailed them along until we came to the source. A husky coolie, oblivious in his half-nudity to the chill December air, had set down his gory, dripping barrow while he rested. His sinewy bare legs were crimson half-way to the knee. He was bespattered and besmeared with the scarlet life-fluid, a veritable Oriental toreador. Atop his barrow was a mass of steaming hides, but lately stripped from quivering cattle who had felt the killer's knife, in the death-house, the abattoir on the sinister street along that runs beside the slimy creek.

The street has its lighter side. A group is seated around a table just back of the counter where hard biscuits and sweetmeats and the Chinese equivalents of kids' delight, "all-day-suckers," are for sale. They are busily engaged in the universally favorite Chinese pastime of gambling. From our vantage point just on the buying sile of the counter it is apparent that the game is not the ubiquitous mah-jongg but a species of rummy, played

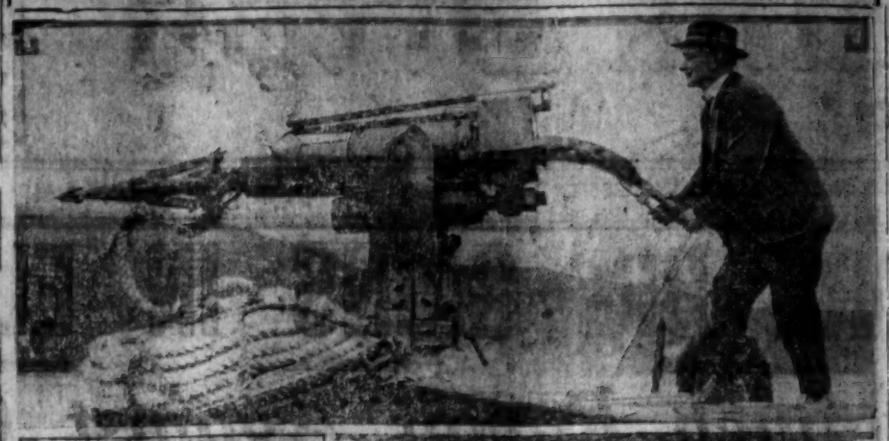
Monster Of The Deep Harpooned Off Alaskan Coast



Whale Gun and Harpooned Whale

Here is shown a monster whale, after being harpooned off the Akunlan Whaling Station, Alaska, the only whaling station in the Behring Sea. The harpoon is fired from this gun on board the whaling vessel, usually at a distance of 30 yards. After the whale is shot the rope attached to the harpoon is detached and the harpoon left in the carcass. The missile embeds itself as much as three feet in the whale. An air hose is attached to the aperture, and the whale is inflated pneumatically, so as to make it float easily. The aperture is then corked tightly with oakum. As many as seven whales can be towed at once to the station, where they are prepared for different products. The oils are used for soaps, the meat for fertilizer and the bone of the sperm whale is used for whalebone.

Sir A. Shirley Benn was re-elected for the Drake division of Plymouth. His majority was reduced by nearly 3,000.

Sir John Baird (Conservative) was re-elected for Ayr. His majority was also reduced.

Women Eager To Cast Votes

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 8.—A feature of the election was the early polling of women, who mostly seemed very keen to vote.

There was heavy polling in the Northern industrial constituencies but it was generally marked by absence of excitement.

Mr. Baldwin and other leaders of the parties received enthusiastic ovations in their respective constituencies.

There were several tragedies. Besides the death of a woman at Brighton after voting, an old man at Durham on his way to the poll slipped on the ice, fell, striking his head and died.

There were fifteen contests in Glasgow.

The liveliest of the counties was Warwickshire, which is as exhausted by its efforts as the Labor candidate for Warwick who remained in his bed most of the day.

A fire in the offices of the Lincolnshire Chronicle caused some excitement.

The window of a Conservative committee-room at Edmonton where eight women were working was smashed, it is believed by the opponents though two constables on duty outside did not see anyone approach.

Girl Denies Right Of Her Parents To Betroth Her

Peking, Dec. 4.—Miss Ching Chin-yin, a girl of eighteen with high school education, has inserted an advertisement in the Chinese Press declaring her non-recognition of her betrothal agreement made by her parents with the father of a young man named Haiung Pao-chi. Miss Ching announces that as the matrimonial arrangement was made during her infancy and she will never endorse it now, she asks all her relatives and friends to take note that as the betrothal had been arranged without her concurrence, she declares it to be null and void. This rare advertisement is regarded as an indication of the rapid growth of feminine power in China and it shows it is necessary for the modification of the existing Chinese marriage system.

Emergency Bill is Voted With Requisite Two-Thirds Majority

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Dec. 6.—The Reichstag today adopted all three sections of the Emergency Powers Bill in three successive ballots with the requisite two-thirds majority. The vote on the whole Bill has been postponed for the present.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Dec. 6.—Arrangements for the resumption of work in the occupied territories continue to be made satisfactorily. Agreements were signed yesterday with firms representing an annual output of over 6,500,000 tons or a further 8 percent of the coal production in the Ruhr, in addition to the 78 percent represented by previous agreements. The mines included in yesterday's agreement will have to pay over 1,500,000 dollars for arrears of coal tax.

Berlin, Dec. 6—Serious food riots and street fighting have occurred during the past few days in the Rhineland and Westphalia.

Seven unemployed were killed and many wounded in one encounter with the police in an attempt to storm the city hall. Three policemen were seriously wounded.

In Eberfeld, four policemen were shot and wounded, while the rioters are believed to have suffered losses of nine dead and many wounded. The police are masters of the situation everywhere.

Paris, Dec. 6—The Temps, in an editorial published today, opposes the plan endorsed by America for a loan to Germany in order to enable her to buy foodstuffs and thereby avert widespread famine this winter.

The Temps points out that the United States still has in hand considerable German property and intimates that the United States merely desires to sell Germany property which was sequestered during the war and intimates that the United States merely desires to sell Germany her surplus grain which she would otherwise have difficulty in disposing of.

President Tsao Kun To Worship At Jade Buddha

Peking, Dec. 4.—President Tsao Kun and Madame Tsao are the first active Buddhists to enter the Presidential Palace of the Republic of China. A report from the Palace states that the President has ordered the large Jade Buddha which has hitherto lived in the Tuan Cheng close to the Pei Hai to be moved to the Tze Kuang Temple in the Chung Hai Palace, so that he and his wife may hold regular private worship.

It is gossiped about that several days ago Madame Tsao went to the Pei Hai and kow towed before the "Flourishing Buddha" marking the first time that any President or his family worshipped there.

The great Jade Buddha, which is to take its new home in the President's Palace, is a very famous one because of its size. On certain days of the year it is put on public view in the Pei Hai and never fails to gather an appreciative audience, not only of Chinese but foreigners likewise. At one time it had a large precious stone set in it, but that has gone.

Unity Between Americans And British Needed In World Affairs Says Admiral Phelps

American Legion Tiffin Guest Asks Warmer Anglo-American Friendship—Opposes Bonus For Ex-Service Men In Farewell Address

Admiral W. W. Phelps, retiring commander of the American Yangtsze patrol, in a farewell address before the American Legion at tiffin at the Hotel Parisien yesterday, at which members of the Committee of the Uniten Services Association were guests of honor, made a strong and eloquent appeal for a closer unity of thought and action between the British and American peoples as a necessity insuring the future peace of the world.

"It is absolutely necessary that these two great branches of the English speaking peoples hold the same equitable, fundamental views of great world problems," Admiral Phelps declared amid hearty applause. "In the Pacific particularly where the Panama Canal and the Straits of Malacca are the two great gate-ways the present status quo will be maintained just as long as they are controlled by English speaking peoples, who hold that every man has a right to liberty, life and the pursuit of happiness and a square deal."

Mr. C. S. Franklin, commander of the Legion here, presided, and with him at the speaker's table were Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham, Judge Charles S. Lobingier, Commander Browning, Commander Greene, Dr. W. T. Findley, Brigadier-General MacNaughten, and Major McMichael. The Hotel Parisien Orchestra played during the tiffin, and M. Faoli, the noted Dutch baritone, sang several selections. About 100 attended.

PAST FRIENDSHIP

Admiral Phelps in his talk reviewed several incidents of bygone years in which the American and British had stood shoulder to shoulder in time of peril and cited cases of the particular comradeship that existed between the two navies.

"In the annals of the United States Navy," he said, "there are many cherished memories of splendid unity of action between the Americans and British that are the forerunners of that unity of action in all great problems which shall some day exist. In 1811, when relations between Great Britain and the United States were very strained the, British frigate Macedonia, Captain Dickers, and the American frigate United States, Captain Stephen Decatur, were in port together. They were great friends and on several occasions discussed what the outcome would be should the two frigates ever meet in battle. Arguments were of no avail and eventually they wagered a hat on the possible outcome. A little later they met. The fortunes of war were with the American ship, and when the British captain came aboard the United States Captain Decatur shook hands and told him he didn't want his sword but he would take that hat!"

TABLES TURNED

"A short time after that the tables were turned and it was the American ship that lost in an engagement with a British warship in the North Atlantic. Captain Lawrence of the American ship, the Chesapeake, was killed, and the British captain had his body taken into his own quarters on the British vessel, carried to Halifax, and buried as tenderly as though he were one of the heroes of the British Navy.

"On this side of the world back in the 50's similar acts of comradeship and friendliness have been shown on numerous occasions. Once in the Gulf of Chili a British gunboat was in bad trouble and the commander of the American gunboat, without bothering about any red tape involved, went to his assistance. That American commander was responsible for the famous phrase, "Blood is thicker than water." Again in Manila Bay it was the British commander who stood shoulder to shoulder with Admiral Dewey when things looked bad for the Americans temporarily.

"The sympathy of Great Britain and the strength of the British Navy have been two of the outstanding reasons why the United States was able for over one hundred years to make the Monroe Doctrine the powerful instrument it has been. The mere dictum of the growing American republic would not have been enough. All these things show that Americans and British have co-operated wonderfully in the past, and forecast even closer and warmer relations in the future."

AGAINST BONUS

Admiral Phelps, explaining that he was a member of the Leviathan post of the American Legion, which is composed of members of the crew of that vessel, and which he commanded for a short period during the war, said that he sincerely hoped the American Legion would oppose the bonus. He was opposed to it, he said, because he firmly believed it was wrong and not the sort of thing the great body of American ex-service men should support.

Applause greeted Mr. Franklin's remarks on Admiral Phelps' point when he announced that the Frederick Ward post here had already gone on record as opposed to the bonus.

In conclusion Admiral Phelps paid a wonderful verbal tribute to the American flag. The blue, he said was the multitude in which was blended the splendid and wonderful principles that guided the United States. The stars stood for the states, orderly, in unison, standing together. The white expressed the purity of motives that influenced the policies of the American government in all its actions and its promise to live up to its treaty obligations with brother and sister nations, and the red stood for the red blood of American manhood.

"Keep these in mind," Admiral Phelps concluded, "so that you will keep your blood red so that you can keep the white pure."

No Decision As Yet On Peking Premier

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Dec. 6.—The sitting of the House of Parliament, which was due to be held today and before which the bill asking Parliament for approval of the formation by Mr. Sun Pao-chi of a succeeding cabinet was to be placed, ended without any decision being arrived at. This is, it is reported, due to the difference of opinion between the constitutionalist members of parliament who insist upon the settlement of the question of the speakership of the House of Representatives previous to the formation of a new cabinet and the supporters of Mr. Wu Ching-lien. It is predicted, therefore, that there will be many complications before the cabinet question can be settled.

DAME ADELAIDE ANDERSON GUEST AT DINNER HERE

Dame Adelaide Anderson, who came to China to study industrial conditions at the invitation of the National Christian Council, was guest of honor at a dinner, given last night at the Navy Y. M. C. A. by the Council and the National Committees of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Some sixty-odd prominent members of church, commercial and industrial organisations were in attendance and an interesting program of speeches was heard. The meeting was presided over by Miss Y. J. Fan, of the National Christian Council, who proved a most gracious and eloquent toastmistress.

The speakers included Mr. John Y. Lee, of the National Committee of the Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. H. C. Mei, of the Y. W. C. A. of China; Mr. W. J. Hawkings, president of the Rotary Club; Dr. Henry T. Hodgkin, of the National Christian Council, and Mr. Francis Zia, representing the Chinese Press.

Each of the speakers extended a hearty welcome to Dame Adelaide and assured her of the hearty support of their respective organisations in her study of conditions here.

Dame Adelaide Anderson, replying, expressed her appreciation for the welcome given her and in an interesting discourse sketched the improvement of industrial conditions in the West since the factory problem arose a century or more ago. China, she said, with the comparatively recent advent of factory labor, has the advantage of the experience of the Western nations to work upon, and with the support of the organisations represented on this occasion she was inclined to be optimistic of good results.

Dame Adelaide, while here, will act with the child labor commission appointed by the Municipal Council which will consider means of betterment of local industrial conditions.

COOLIES ATTACK FOREIGN OFFICIAL OF TRAMWAY CO.

A foreign tramway inspector, Mr. James Duncan, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday as complainant in which two Chinese were charged with assault.

Mr. Duncan stated that he was at the Yangtszepoo Road terminus of the tram line Thursday evening when about 200 or 300 fitters of the Municipal Electricity Department swarmed upon the cars. They climbed through the windows and simply jammed the cars. He tried to get some of them off and so comply with the overcrowding regulations. Someone in the crowd then pulled off the trolley, leaving the car in darkness. He replaced the trolley and then the Chinese began showing mud and stones at him. The two accused, who appeared to be the ringleaders, exhorted the crowd to attack the witness and he picked up an iron bar and swung it about to protect himself, striking the first accused on the head. He then managed to get away and phoned to Yangtszepoo police station for aid. Inspector Johnstone, Sub-Inspector Morgan and other officers responded and the two accused were arrested.

The Assessor remarked when the evidence had been all put in that the men appeared to be nothing more than hooligans and the Court sentenced the first accused to two months imprisonment and the second accused to one month.

Here is a pointed example of the way the world's games travel back and forth, over land and water, first in this guise then in that, finally coming home to roost. Mah-jongg first clicked its way to popularity in China. The foreigners reduced mah-jongg to the common denominator of rummy which they proceeded to play with much gusto. Then, while Chinese mah-jongg and foreign rummy were being played and played in their respective countries, someone effected a swap. Now we have all the world except China going crazy over mah-jongg to the intense satisfaction and financial glory of the oriental manufacturers. In the midst of the noise of ivory and bamboo tiles slapping on the tables of the world, China quietly reaches around and appropriates the neglected rummy.

There they were, the whole family and a few of the neighbors, discarding one and drawing one. They had no time for customers. A small girl and her smaller sister with a whole copper to spend between them, rapped on the glass counter and glued their small noses to the cold glass separating them from their desires. Finally, as if the plaintive rapping of the copper on the glass distracted him from his game, the proprietor, holding his cards in his hand, made a half-turn and scooped out ten small dry cakes which he pushed across at his customer for her copper.

The bigger of the two sisters, annoyed at the lack of attention shown anyone who had had money to spend in such a princessly fashion, dropped most of the biscuits in her perturbation, even as she was scooping them up from the counter. Those that stayed in her hands she shoved unceremoniously into a well-hidden pocket in number one layer of small sister's winter wadding. Those that had fallen into the grimy street she salvaged and shoved, even more unceremoniously, into the young one's only too eager mouth. Verily, the path of the personal hygienist is a rough one in China!

Range road winds and winds. One strays off it after a time, and on the way back encounters appropriately enough, after so much winding, Elgin road. This street, apparently, was named for a watch, but not the kind that ticks. Most of the inhabitants seem to have nothing to do but sit quietly around and "elgin" if you get what we mean. Whether watching a mah-jongg game of enormous proportions, with real money changing hands, or those who work, or those who play, or just those who pass by, the Elgin roadites are the best watch-men we have encountered so far.

Ten young Chinese hopefuls, both sexes and assorted years, from the bottle stage to the shy age, gathered on the sidewalk all watching the leader of the group. Was she making faces of a grotesqueness that an American Penrod might envy? Was she sticking out her tongue to a prodigious length at the back of a policeman? She was not. She was showing her little group of serious students how to execute a knit one, purl two in the heel of a sock. One and all the gang was knitting, the boys as well as the girls. The smallest, lately graduated from their Chinese cradles on mother's back, had not yet been trusted with knitting needles. Did this dampen their enthusiasm? Not while a couple of short sticks and stray pieces of cord, knotted together by ingenious fingers, were available. Here is the answer to why all Chinese amahs know how to knit! It also leaves no doubt as to the latent knitting possibilities in your number one boy.

Doctors Will Meet To Discuss Glands

human system can waste his time in Shanghai with its mere 20,000 foreign population.

The British doctor was reminded that some people considered the opposition of doctors in yesterday's issue as professional jealousy.

NO JEALOUSY

"Yes, I know that," he replied," and the old saying is that fools rush in where angels fear to tread so I suppose the family physician's word in the matter will not be heard. There will unquestionably be a number of people here who will have the operation performed, hand over their money, and go on their way rejoicing. They may think for a few days that they have benefited, but in the course of a few weeks they will realise they are just the same as they always were—only a few weeks older, of course. Then they'll be satisfied, perhaps, and that will do more than miles of talk against the operation."

"There have been flocks of others who have also had marvelous cures-alls, and they have all passed on and are forgotten. How many times have you heard that some alleged scientist have found a sure-cure for cancer? And the doctor that 'discovered' that red rubber on soda-water bottles caused appendicitis. Why, they couldn't sell that kind of soda water for months in London. But they sell it again now. It's simply a fad that will cause a lot of talkee talkee for a few days and then be forgotten, except by some of the foolish."

"What is your answer to Dr. Brinkley's claim that goat glands are even better than monkey or human glands?" I asked the doctor.

"It really doesn't make any difference what kinds of glands you use," he replied, "They're all equally useless. Goat glands, of course, are cheaper. That's about the only reason I could suggest."

WHAT HOSPITAL?

No announcement has as yet been made concerning the hospital at which Dr. Brinkley would perform his operations. It was intimated yesterday that the Board of the General Hospital would meet in a day or two to consider whether or not he would be given hospital privileges there. One informant, however, said that the Board would not consider the question until Dr. Brinkley made application. He indicated that Dr. Brinkley would very probably not apply to the General Hospital after discovering the attitude of local physicians and surgeons.

In the meantime Mr. Robert Northcliff, Dr. Brinkley's secretary, is reported to have received numerous inquiries concerning the gland operations at the Astor House, where the Kansas Ponce de Leon has made reservations.

ARREST ROBBERS

Tingle Gets Decision Over Garcia In Fast And Furious 12 Round Bout

Australian Punches Way To Clean Cut Victory Over Manila Boy; Wilson Wins Over Kyko; Big Crowd At Carlton

By Westa

A large roomfull of pop eyed devotees of the pastime that was lifted to the dignity of a fine art under the sponsorship of the late Marquis of Queensberry saw Billy Tingle of Australia, punch his way to a clean cut victory over Lenardo Garcia, of Manila, at Louie Ladow's Temple de Thump last evening. Most of the pop eyes had well lighted cigars or cigarettes in their chow hoppers when Mr. Tingle and Mr. Garcia began their argument, but by the time the first round was concluded the weeds were as cold as an Eskimo's porch, and from that time on there wasn't a match struck.

It was a wonderful scrap. It probably isn't too much to say that it was the best ring battle ever staged in China. From start to finish there was more action in it than there is room for improvement in the education of a goose. In every one of the twelve rounds both boys traveled at top speed, and to the marvel of all they were still going like fire engines when the final gong sent them to their corners.

CLEAR CUT VICTORY

The decision in Billy's favor—a decision that was given without hesitation by Dr. O'Hara, referee, and Capt. Barrett and Ed Himrod, judges—was well merited, for Billy was clearly superior to the clever Filipino. In practically every round he out boxed and out punched the Manila boy, the few sessions that were not in his favor being even. In the fourth stanza he plastered Garcia one in the nose that started a trickle of claret, and for most of the remainder of the battle he kept the stream running, much to Lenardo's annoyance.

Billy's greatest superiority, however, was in his close range execution. Whenever the two boys came together, which they did frequently, Billy whipped short arm jolts into Garcia's ribs and midsection in a manner that must have made the latter's innards think a whole series of earthquakes was in progress thereabouts. At the same time he used his left effectively to block Garcia's efforts at retaliation.

Billy must have spent some time since their last match in scheming out a way to break down Lenardo's offense in this respect, since in their previous battle Garcia nearly wore his gloves out thumping Billy's slats, and kept it up despite the Australian's best efforts to protect himself. Last night the situation was reversed, and if Whitey Smith had not been out in the other room you would have thought, from the whacks of Billy's mitt against Garcia's ribs and breadbasket, that he was in the middle of the ring playing a base drum solo.

THE DUMBBELL SQUAD

Some of the complete, one hundred percent dumbbells in the audience revealed their abysmal ignorance of boxing by yelping at the Sawbones to break them when they were mixing it at close quarters, thereby showing that one of the finest exhibitions of this important branch of ring craft ever seen here or anywhere else was passing by a million miles over their steel and concrete domes; and this despite the fact that Sam Davis and Louie Ladow had provided a powerful light directly over the ring to enable the customers to see what went on therein. These goofs are on a par with the "loud mouths bespeaking empty minds" at baseball games by clamoring for a sacrifice with two men out.

Garcia was not as accurate, either in his judgment of distance or in his timing, as in his last fight. He let loose with numerous swings that missed by at least a mile, whereas Billy held his fire, as a rule, until the target moved into range.

It was a scintillating battle, and those who were not there missed a wonderful entertainment. In New York and London they are paying twice as much to see boxing not half as good as this pair displayed last night, and many among the ol' timers present expressed themselves as being thankful for an opportunity to see such talent in action at this distance from our usual centers. It certainly was a dispensation of Rome's luxuries in outer Gaul.

These boys are going to the States later on, and mark this prediction: they will be heard of among the pugilistic four hundred before the next year has run its course.

FIGHTING WEIGHTS

It was announced before the main scrap by our old friend Graham-Barrow, the David Belasco of the Far East, that the boys had weighed in just before the battle, on the scales that Louie uses to weigh the kitchen leftovers he sells every morning to the chop suey exporters (and you can bet your bottom smacker they don't cheat) and that Tingle had balanced at 119 pounds, or eight stones seven if you prefer it in metric measurements, and that Garcia was seven pounds heavier. This makes Billy's victory all the more creditable. Seven pounds is a flock of avoirdupois to give away in the bantam division and in giving it Billy showed qualities of sportsmanship on a par with his consummate skill as a boxer.

As to the rest of the card, the best offered was a six round scrap between Wilson, the local amateur, and Battling Kyko, in which Wilson got the decision. Yeh, Wilson got the decision all right, but no sooner had Dr. O'Hara lifted the S.M.C. Revenue department scrapper's hand in token of victory than a lot of customers got up on their chairs and announced that if a tramcar were to run over them and cut off both their legs, and Doc. O'Hara was the only medico within a thousand miles, they would then and there sign up with the Christian Scientists.

ENTER THE BULIMIA

It did look like the genial Doc might have called it a draw, seeing that Kyko had supplied most of the aggression as well as at least half of the punches. Wilson slammed home a number of pile driving wallops, it is true; but then this Kyko is a positive bulimia (ol' Val and I were reading Shandygaff the other day) for punishment; a fact well known to the Doc., and it maybe that he based his decision on what Wilson's punches should have done to the Manila boy rather than on what they actually did do.

Wilson hit him plenty, and so hard that if Kyko had been anything except the above mentioned bulimia he not only would have got the decision, but would have been haled into court on a charge of first decree murder in addition.

This was a good, hard scrap. Kyko is a tough customer for anybody to tackle; a big, solid bruiser who has an awkward style that is hard to penetrate and a punch that a house wrecker could use to advantage in his business. Wilson surprised even his staunchest admirers by standing toe to toe with that Kyko baby the way he did. His victory makes him welterweight champion of Shanghai, and while there were some who did not think he deserved the verdict it is some compensation to know that we now have welter champ in this city who won't take on the airs of a prima donna whenever a suggestion is made that he defend his title.

At one stage of this battle Wilson's principal article of wearing apparel showed an inclination to give up the struggle, frightened, perhaps, more by the Filipino's fighting scowl than by fear of an adverse tide of battle, whereat Doc O'Hara had to call a halt until a spendthrift equipped with both belt and galluses could be found. There happened to be such a one present, and he saved the situation (and as there were a number of ladies present it was, in all truth, a serious predicament) by making a loan of his belt.

After the smiles had subsided Judge Franklin was heard to remark that there was some truth, after all, in the old saying about licking the pants off a man.

The other bouts were not much. Tigora, the battling Moro, knocked Charlie Treadwell silly in one round, accomplishing that job as soon as he was able to overtake the sailor, which required something of an effort on his part. Treadwell evidently thought he was participating in a track meet.

Toledo clashed with Nefsky the Russian, and almost immediately thereafter the Russian clashed with the canvas. This was a poor match and should not have been put on. Nefsky is the rewest kind of a beginner.

In the curtain raiser Kid Manila got the decision over his old rival, Joe Ching; after which the two of them sat in a front row seat eating from the same bag of candy with which Louie rewarded them for their efforts.

Altogether a fine card, and thank Heaven there was no rassling to referee after it was all over.

S.A.S. FOOTBALL SQUAD TO PLAY CHINESE TODAY

Fast Play Looked For When Yencheng Eleven Meets Local Boys

BY LOWELL UPSON

Everything is set for the football game to take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Nanyang College athletic field between the Chinese team from Yencheng and the Shanghai American School eleven. The Chinese team are on hand, ready for the struggle, and the S. A. S. pigskin chasers, having just completed their intercass series, are in the best of condition even though the varsity has had little opportunity to practice the new signals.

All reports tend to show that the Chinese have developed unusual ability in the American game. Full Back Dsang of the Yencheng eleven is hailed as a great line-plunger and Y. A. Chu, the right halfback and Chao, quarterback, have shown startling bursts of speed in practice games.

The Chinese are under a handicap in that they have had only two weeks' of intensive training. Half of that time they were without uniforms. This, however, has by no means lessened their confidence in their ability to show creditably in their tussle with the American School team.

The tentative line-ups are:

Chinese		S.A.S.
G. T. Lui	LE	M. Estes
T. G. Pei	LT	C. Du Bose
D. K. Chou	LG	J. Carlton
Y. T. Wang	C	W. Raven
H. P. Lui	RG	R. Moffett
H. A. Sun	RT	H. Carlton
S. S. Tong	RE	H. Wright
T. C. Chao	QB	H. Brewster (Capt.)
Y. A. Chu	RH	H. Giffen
Y. K. Sun	LH	W. Hoye
S. G. Dsang	FB	C. Squires

Substitutes for S.A.S.: John Davies, A. Grafton, A. Hagar, et al.

Although the above mentioned are chosen for the school varsity Coach Edmunds will have a second team on the field to relieve the first eleven, if necessary.

The officials for the game are:
J. E. Doyle .... Referee
H. Kingman .... Umpire
J. Neal ..... Head linesman
Dr. Macracken .. Field Judge
The game will start at 3:30 p.m. sharp.

TAX REDUCTIONS WILL BE ISSUE IN U.S. CONGRESS

Bonus Fight Will Be Repeated At Present Session, Indications Show

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 6.—The issues in this Congress will be the soldiers' bonus and the plan of Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury, for reduction of income taxes, the railroad rate regulation and some sort of assistance to Western farmers, while in foreign affairs the proposal to adhere to the World Court and the Mexican and Lausanne Treaties will be of chief importance. The World Court proposal goes to a hostile committee in the Senate from which it may not emerge. The Lausanne Treaty is likely to encounter serious opposition from the organised Churches on the ground that it is a betrayal of Christian interests in Asia Minor. Ratification of the Mexican Treaty is regarded as certain whereupon full diplomatic intercourse will be resumed.

Millions Of Marks Seized By Police In Opium Raid Here

A fortune in marks—if the mark was worth anything—was seized by the police when they raided 139 Peking Road Thursday and seized a large quantity of opium.

Four arrests were made and yesterday one man, a broker named Sung Zung-tsang, was charged as the proprietor of the place and the others were charged with aiding and abetting. Twenty pounds of opium were produced as evidence and among the considerable quantity of money produced were ninety-eight 1,000 mark bank notes and 226 ten-thousand mark notes.

After evidence of arrest had been given the case was remanded until next Wednesday, the principal accused being ordered held in custody and the others to furnish $1,000 bail.

WANDERERS AND SCHOOL VICTORS AT BASKETBALL

Fast Games Are Played By Teams In Foreign League

BY K. S. CHANG

In last night's games of the Foreign Basketball League, played in the gymnasium of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., the Wanderers walked away over the Blizzards with a 29-25 score and the Shanghai Public School quintet trimmed the Wildcats to the tune of 39 to 28. Both games were witnessed by an immense crowd of spectators.

The first game between the Wanderers, a team of baseball stars, and the Blizzards was rough and scrappy. The former had the advantage of weight over the losers, and they had improved a great deal in their shooting. Sutton, Maloney, and Tinkham, were heavy scorers, each netting over five baskets. Pepper also showed up as a new addition as guard.

For the losers, Canavarro showed great form in his passing and shooting. He scored six goals, a couple of which were beauties.

The summaries:

Wanderers		Blizzards
Bruce & Maloney	l.f.	Canavarro
Sutton	r.f.	Maitland
Tinkham	c.	Baker
Thatch	l.g.	Rocha
Pepper	r.g.	Guttieres

Goals from fouls: Maitland 3, Baker 2, Maloney 1.

Goals from floor: Tinkham and Canavarro 6, Sutton and Maloney 5.

Bruce, Maitland, Rocha, Baker, and Guttieres 1.

Referee: Doyle. Scorer, Wright.

The game between the Wildcats and the Public School boys was fast and spectacular. The Public School quintet ran wild right from the start of the game.

The first half ended, 17 to 6, with the school team leading.

The second half opened with the ferocious attack of the east. Roxburg scored the first goal for this period only a few seconds after the whistle was blown. He repeated after a minute. Then the school team pulled together with some fast passing which enabled Levis to score two goals. After this, the game seemed to go on closely with frequent goals from both sides. The score of the second half was a tie of 22 all.

The summaries:

S'hai Public School		The Wildcats
Bell	lf.	Johansson
Levis	rf	Roxburgh
Kablitz	c.	Remedios
Jesu	lg.	Lewis
Mahon	rg.	Carleson

Goals from fouls: Roxburgh 3, Bell, Levis 2, Remedios 1, Kablitz 1.

Goals from floor: Roxburgh and Levis 6, Bell 5, Remedios 4.

Kablitz 3, Mahon 2, Johansson, Jesu and Carleson 1. Referee: Hazard, Scorer: Wright.

Report On Plague Prevention Work In North Manchuria

Dr. Wu Lien-teh, Director and chief medical officer of the North Manchurian Prevention Service, has just made the following report of plague prevention work in the North to the Minister for Foreign Affairs:

To
His Excellency,
The Minister for Foreign Affairs,
Peking.

Sir,—I have the honor to submit a summary of the Eleventh Annual General Report of the North Manchurian Plague Prevention Service for the year ending September 1923. Owing to my having had to visit Japan as Exchange Professor during October, this month is for convenience included in the present Report.

2.—Plague. The past year has been practically free from plague so far as Manchuria is concerned. Three sporadic cases were reported two in the endemic areas of Transbaikalia and one near Yakoshih, a station on the Chinese Eastern Railway between Mentuho and Hailar. As these cases had a close relation to the epizootics then occurring among the tarabagans (Siberian marmots), a detailed statement may be given here.

Patient 1 was a Russian hunter aged 24. He reported sick on 20th. May with high fever and a bubo in right armpit. He complained of pain in chest, had slight diarrhoea and cough with blood-stained sputum. He died on 22nd.

Patient 2 was a Russian tarabagan hunter, aged 37 years, and lived 15 versts from Haranor. He had fever on May 16 with a bubo in right axilla, and died on 20th with characteristic signs of plague.

Patient 3 was a young Russian girl of 12 years living at Station 83 near Dauria (54 versts west of Manchouli). Her family hunted tarabagans and she helped in handling them. She developed a bubo in right axilla and died on September 3.

It was significant that all three patients were Russians, all showed buboes in the right arm-pit, and all died of the infection, confirmed later on by animal experiments.

CONNECTING LINK

3.—After prolonged researches extending for over ten years, we have at last established the connecting link—so to say—between the Siberia marmot and the pneumonic plague outbreaks of 1910-11, 1917-18 and 1920-21. As a result of our investigations conducted this year in Siberia, we are now satisfied that the tarabagan harbors the plague organism in the natural state, which on suitable occasion becomes more virulent and produces epizootics in certain areas. Should human beings encounter such diseased animals, they are liable to contract the disease in a bubonic or septicemic form, which in turn tends to affect the lungs and thus under suitable conditions endangers the community with a pneumonic outbreak.

Working in the endemic regions during the months of May September of this year, the Chinese-Russian expedition discovered at least eleven tarabagans suffering from plague in the natural state. Such findings have up to now been difficult, because of the short duration of the epidemics among animals, of the rapidity with which eagles and animals of prey devoured sick and dead tarabagans in the fields, and of the wild nature of the country. Other interesting facts established by us during this year were:

a. the persistence with which ecto-parasites like fleas, lice and ticks, stick to the carcases and even pelts of the tarabagans.
b. the possibility of lice as well as fleas conveying plague from animal to animal by bite.
c. the long duration taken by the plague bacillus to kill the hibernating tarabagan. Three of our animals experimented in winter lived for 73, 41, and 21 days after inoculation. Some showed the disease in a chronic state.

NO CHOLERA

4.—Other Infectious Diseases. Cholera has been entirely absent from Manchuria and North China this year, though there were small outbreaks in Shanghai and some ports in the south. Scarlet fever invaded many parts of North Manchuria, and severe cases were reported from Taheiho. The type met with was as malignant as that seen in Peking and Tientsin and often killed all the younger members of a family. This disease is worth careful investigation. Dysentery and other bowel diseases were also frequent throughout the summer, and 59 cases of the former were admitted into Harbin Hospital in July. Erysipelas was quite prominent and attacked two members of our medical staff in severe form.

Typhus was practically absent this year. Both Small-pox and Influenza were not unusually common, being quite mild in character.

Cattle plague broke out in a severe form in March-May in the Suihua and Lo-pei districts (Heilungkiang). At the request of the Governor we sent two Assistant Medical Officers there, and the epidemic was suppressed by end of June.

5.—On August 18 I left Shanghai to attend the fifth Congress of the Far Eastern Association of Tropical Medicine held in this year at Singapore. I officiated as Government delegate from Peking as well as a Vice-President of the Association. Under the presidentship of Dr. A. L. Hopps, Principal Civil Medical Officer, Straits Settlements, the Conference lasted from September 1 to 14 and was attended by representatives from the Philippines, Hongkong, French-Indo-China, Netherlands Indies, Straits Settlements, Malay States, Australia, India, China, Japan, Siam, Formosa, Sarawak, British North Borneo, and Macao. There were 80 oversea members, of whom twelve came from Japan and two from China. The other Chinese delegate besides myself was Dr. Liang Po Chiang of Shanghai.

At this Congress I read two papers, namely,

a. The Original Home of Plague, and
b. Plague in Wild Rodents, including Latest Investigations upon the Tarabagan.

Much interest was also centered upon the prevention of Beri-beri (regarding which the American delegation suggested enaction of laws enforcing the sale of non-polished rice, but this proposal was defeated', control of Malaria, and revised Quarantine Procedure for the Orient. The local British covernment extended to the visitors every hospitality at Singapore, Kwala Lumpur, Ipon and Penang, and issued free railway tickets to the official delegates. It was decided to hold the next Congress at Tokio in 1925 with Professor Kitasato as President.

IN JAPAN

6.—I arrived at Shanghai from the south on October 7, and the same evening left for Nagasaki in order to be in time for the Medical Conference at Kagoshima, to which I had been invited as the principal speaker. My lecture on "Researches upon the Siberian Marmot" lasted one and half hours and was heard by 800 persons, mostly Japanese doctors attending the Conference. After that I visited the Universities of Kioto, Osaka and Tokio, and delivered a series of addresses upon Hygiene in the Orient, Pneumonic Plague, Inter-dependence of Japanese and Chinese Medicine, etc. Everywhere I was received with the greatest courtesy by government officials, scientists and medical men, and in spite of the recent earthquake was shown every hospitality. This is the first occasion on which a Chinese had been invited to Japan as Exchange Professor, and the opportunity was seized by both sides to cultivate more friendly relations. Whenever possible, I urged my colleagues to map out new lines of research in medicine and hygiene, which might prove of greater benefit to eastern nations.

TAX REDUCTIONS WILL BE ISSUE IN U.S. CONGRESS

Bonus Fight Will Be Repeated At Present Session, Indications Show

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 6.—The issues in this Congress will be the soldiers' bonus and the plan of Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury, for reduction of income taxes, the railroad rate regulation and some sort of assistance to Western farmers, while in foreign affairs the proposal to adhere to the World Court and the Mexican and Lausanne Treaties will be of chief importance. The World Court proposal goes to a hostile committee in the Senate from which it may not emerge. The Lausanne Treaty is likely to encounter serious opposition from the organised Churches on the ground that it is a betrayal of Christian interests in Asia Minor. Ratification of the Mexican Treaty is regarded as certain whereupon full diplomatic intercourse will be resumed.

Millions Of Marks Seized By Police In Opium Raid Here

A fortune in marks—if the mark was worth anything—was seized by the police when they raided 139 Peking Road Thursday and seized a large quantity of opium.

Four arrests were made and yesterday one man, a broker named Sung Zung-tsang, was charged as the proprietor of the place and the others were charged with aiding and abetting. Twenty pounds of opium were produced as evidence and among the considerable quantity of money produced were ninety-eight 1,000 mark bank notes and 226 ten-thousand mark notes.

After evidence of arrest had been given the case was remanded until next Wednesday, the principal accused being ordered held in custody and the others to furnish $1,000 bail.

Jail Sentences In Opium Case

Four women and three men, one of the latter 72 years old and the husband of one of the women and father of the girls and of one of the men charged, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday for selling opium at 721 Fokien Road.

The wife and mother was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan while the old man was ordered to pay a fine of $500 and go to jail for one week. It was shown by counsel that the parents had coerced their children into aiding in the sales. The son, who is only 12 years old, was discharged and the remaining four were ordered to pay fines of $100 each.

WANDERERS AND SCHOOL VICTORS AT BASKETBALL

Fast Games Are Played By Teams In Foreign League

BY K. S. CHANG

In last night's games of the Foreign Basketball League, played in the gymnasium of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., the Wanderers walked away over the Blizzards with a 29-25 score and the Shanghai Public School quintet trimmed the Wildcats to the tune of 39 to 28. Both games were witnessed by an immense crowd of spectators.

The first game between the Wanderers, a team of baseball stars, and the Blizzards was rough and scrappy. The former had the advantage of weight over the losers, and they had improved a great deal in their shooting. Sutton, Maloney, and Tinkham, were heavy scorers, each netting over five baskets. Pepper also showed up as a new addition as guard.

For the losers, Canavarro showed great form in his passing and shooting. He scored six goals, a couple of which were beauties.

The summaries:

Wanderers		Blizzards
Bruce & Maloney	l.f.	Canavarro
Sutton	r.f.	Maitland
Tinkham	c.	Baker
Thatch	l.g.	Rocha
Pepper	r.g.	Guttierez

Goals from fouls: Maitland 3, Baker 2, Maloney 1.

Goals from floor: Tinkham and Canavarro 6, Sutton and Maloney 5.

Bruce, Maitland, Rocha, Baker, and Guttierez 1.

Referee: Doyle. Scorer, Wright.

The game between the Wildcats and the Public School boys was fast and spectacular. The Public School quintet ran wild right from the start of the game.

The first half ended, 17 to 6, with the school team leading.

The second half opened with the ferocious attack of the cats. Roxburg scored the first goal for this period only a few seconds after the whistle was blown. He repeated after a minute. Then the school team pulled together with some fast passing which enabled Levis to score two goals. After this, the game seemed to go on closely with frequent goals from both sides. The score of the second half was a tie of 22 all.

The summaries:

S'hai Public School		The Wildcats
Bell	lf.	Johansson
Levis	rf	Roxburgh
Kablitz	c.	Remedios
Jesu	lg.	Lewis
Mahon	rg.	Carleson

Goals from fouls: Roxburgh 3, Bell, Levis 2, Remedios 1, Kablitz 1.

Goals from floor: Roxburgh and Levis 6, Bell 5, Remedios 4.

Kablitz 3, Mahon 2, Johansson, Jesu and Carleson 1. Referee: Hazard, Scorer: Wright.

Report On Plague Prevention Work In North Manchuria

Dr. Wu Lien-teh, Director and chief medical officer of the North Manchurian Prevention Service, has just made the following report of plague prevention work in the North to the Minister for Foreign Affairs:

To
His Excellency,
The Minister for Foreign Affairs,
Peking.

Sir,—I have the honor to submit a summary of the Eleventh Annual General Report of the North Manchurian Plague Prevention Service for the year ending September 1923. Owing to my having had to visit Japan as Exchange Professor during October, this month is for convenience included in the present Report.

1.—Plague. The past year has been practically free from plague so far as Manchuria is concerned. Three sporadic cases were reported two in the endemic areas of Transbaikalia and one near Yakoshih, a station on the Chinese Eastern Railway between Mentuho and Hailar. As these cases had a close relation to the epizootics then occurring among the tarabagans (Siberian marmots), a detailed statement may be given here.

Patient 1 was a Russian hunter aged 24. He reported sick on 20th. May with high fever and a bubo in right armpit. He complained of pain in chest, had slight diarrhoea and cough with blood-stained sputum. He died on 22nd.

Patient 2 was a Russian tarabagan hunter, aged 37 years, and lived 15 versts from Haranor. He had fever on May 16 with a bubo in right axilla, and died on 20th with characteristic signs of plague.

Patient 3 was a young Russian girl of 12 years living at Station 83 near Dauria (54 versts west of Manchouli). Her family hunted tarabagans and she helped in handling them. She developed a bubo in right axilla and died on September 3.

It was significant that all three patients were Russians, all showed buboes in the right arm-pit, and all died of the infection, confirmed later on by animal experiments.

CONNECTING LINK

2.—After prolonged researches extending for over ten years, we have at last established the connecting link—so to say—between the Siberia marmot and the pneumonic plague outbreaks of 1910-11, 1917-18 and 1920-21. As a result of our investigations conducted this year in Siberia, we are now satisfied that the tarabagan harbors the plague organism in the natural state, which on suitable occasion becomes more virulent and produces epizootics in certain areas. Should human beings encounter such diseased animals, they are liable to contract the disease in a bubonic or septicemic form, which in turn tends to affect the lungs and thus under suitable conditions endangers the community with a pneumonic outbreak.

Working in the endemic regions during the months of May September of this year, the Chinese-Russian expedition discovered at least eleven tarabagans dead from plague in the natural state. Such findings have up to now been difficult, because of the short duration of the epidemics among animals, of the rapidity with which eagles and animals of prey devoured sick and dead tarabagans in the fields, and of the wild nature of the country. Other interesting facts established by us during this year were:

a. the persistence with which ecto-parasites like fleas, lice and ticks, stick to the carcases and even pelts of the tarabagans.

b. the possibility of lice as well as fleas conveying plague from animal to animal by bite.

c. the long duration taken by the plague bacillus to kill the hibernating tarabagan. Three of our animals experimented in winter lived for 73, 41, and 21 days after inoculation. Some showed the disease in a chronic state.

NO CHOLERA

4.—Other Infectious Diseases. Cholera has been entirely absent from Manchuria and North China this year, though there were small outbreaks in Shanghai and some ports in the south. Scarlet fever invaded many parts of North Manchuria, and severe cases were reported from Taheiho. The type met with was as malignant as that seen in Peking and Tientsin and often killed all the younger members of a family. This disease is worth careful investigation. Dysentery and other bowel diseases were also frequent throughout the summer, and 59 cases of the former were admitted into Harbin Hospital in July. Erysipelas was quite prominent and attacked two members of our medical staff in severe form.

Typhus was practically absent this year. Both Small-pox and Influenza were not unusually common, being quite mild in character.

Cattle plague broke out in a severe form in March-May in the Suihua and Lo-pei districts (Heilungkiang). At the request of the Governor we sent two Assistant Medical Officers there, and the epidemic was suppressed by end of June.

5.—On August 18 I left Shanghai to attend the fifth Congress of the Far Eastern Association of Tropical Medicine held in this year at Singapore. I officiated as Government delegate from Peking as well as a Vice-President of the Association. Under the presidentship of Dr. A. L. Hopps, Principal Civil Medical Officer, Straits Settlements, the Conference lasted from September 1 to 14 and was attended by representatives from the Philippines, Hongkong, French-Indo-China, Netherlands Indies, Straits Settlements, Malay States, Australia, India, China, Japan, Siam, Formosa, Sarawak, British North Borneo, and Macao. There were 80 oversea members, of whom twelve came from Japan and two from China. The other Chinese delegate besides myself was Dr. Liang Po Chiang of Shanghai.

At this Congress I read two papers, namely,

a. The Original Home of Plague, and

b. Plague in Wild Rodents, including Latest Investigations upon the Tarabagan.

Much interest was also centered upon the prevention of Beri-beri (regarding which the American delegation suggested enaction of laws enforcing the sale of non-polished rice, but this proposal was defeated), control of Malaria, and revised Quarantine Procedure for the Orient. The local British government extended to the visitors every hospitality at Singapore, Kwala Lumpur, Ipoh and Penang, and issued free railway tickets to the official delegates. It was decided to hold the next Congress at Tokio in 1925 with Professor Kitasato as President.

IN JAPAN

6.—I arrived at Shanghai from the south on October 7, and the same evening left for Nagasaki in order to be in time for the Medical Conference at Kagoshima, to which I had been invited as the principal speaker. My lecture on "Researches upon the Siberian Marmot" lasted one and half hours and was heard by 800 persons, mostly Japanese doctors attending the Conference. After that I visited the Universities of Kioto, Osaka and Tokio, and delivered a series of addresses upon Hygiene in the Orient, Pneumonic Plague, Inter-dependence of Japanese and Chinese Medicine, etc. Everywhere I was received with the greatest courtesy by government officials, scientists and medical men, and in spite of the recent earthquake was shown every hospitality. This is the first occasion on which a Chinese had been invited to Japan as Exchange Professor, and the opportunity was seized by both sides to cultivate more friendly relations. Whenever possible, I urged my Japanese colleagues to map out new lines of research in medicine and hygiene, which might prove of greater benefit to eastern nations.

tions than mere academical and abstract problems. I returned to China on November 5.

3.—Two important meetings were held in the course of the year.

4.—On August 14, General Chu Ching Lan invited representatives from the Heilungkiang Province, Chinese Eastern Railway and our Service to discuss with him methods for the control of the tarabagan skin trade which had been prohibited by the Tuchun for the past two years. The meeting recommended the establishment of offices at Manchouli and Hailar, where efficient inspectors could control the issuance of permits to hunters and the disinfection of skins before export, but the Governor of the province in a dispatch dated September 18 rejected this recommendation. Total prohibition of the trade therefore continues, but much smuggling is done across the border, and these skins are now exported via Kaigan and Tientsin.

5.—At the invitation of the medical authorities of Transbaikalia, I left Harbin for Chita on July 29, and attended a conference initiated by them on August 1-4. We discussed many aspects of the tarabagan problem, and agreed that, although this animal has now been definitely proved to be the real precursor of plague in those regions, it was essential for economic reasons to regulate, rather than prohibit, hunting and traffic in their skins. Some workable regulations were passed, and I returned on August 8.

MORE HOSPITALS

6.—I have pleasure in reporting considerable hospital extensions through Manchuria. Our Service bought a large very fine stone building at Manchouli for the use of our out-patient clinic as well as quarters for the medical staff. At Newchwang, we have erected a series of permanent brick detention sheds with accomodation for 400 persons. The kangs there are of a hygienic nature, the wooden boards resting on ferro-concrete supports and thus allowing thorough cleaning and disinfection. The total cost $35,000.

At Antung, the sum of Tls. 40,600 has been granted by the Customs for the erection of a quarantine hospital at the anchorage spot for steamers on the River Yalu.

At Mukden, a large city hospital—the north-eastern—has been erected by the local authorities at a cost of Mex. $600,000, consisting of 28 separate blocks and accomodating 400 beds.

At Chinkisen, a fine moderate sized hospital has been built by the Peking-Mukden Railway with Dr. Lumley in charge.

The South Manchurian Railway has commenced operations for the erection of a large railway hospital at Dairen with accomodation for 450 persons. Both architects and contractors are Americans, and the total cost will reach Yen 4,000,000.

In view of these great improvements around us, I earnestly hope that our Service, which has now entered its twelfth year of existence, may be allowed to have more appropriation for its activities. In spite of the increased cost of living and the much enhanced price of all materials, we are receiving the same allowance as twelve years ago.

FLOODS

8.—A Commission consisting of Drs. Norman White and Miyajima visited our Harbin Hospital on March 27-29 on behalf of the Health Section of the League of Nations and consulted our staff regarding mutual co-operation in quarantine work and the eradication of epidemics in the orient. It is hoped that before long the present Unworkable laws enacted in Paris years ago will be changed.

10.—The past summer has been unusually wet, floods having on more than one occasion threatened to invade the city of Harbin. In fact the situation looked so bad about the end of August that new dykes were hurriedly built. Fortunately little material damage was done by the rising water. In other parts of Manchuria, miles of railway tracks were washed away, and both the South Manchurian and Peking-Mukden Railways were seriously affected by the floods. The remants also suffered through damage to their crops. A heavy snowfall occurred at Harbin on October 10.

11.—All our Station Hospitals report progress. No plague or cholera was reported at any spot. The following are figures of out-patients seen at the respective hospitals in 1922-23, as compared with previous years:

	1922-23	1921-22
Harbin	15,343	9,345
Taheiho	8,037	4,290
Sansing	5,235	4,054
Lahasusu	1,470	2,213
Newchwang	3,693	3,043
Manchouli	2,347	2,291

	1920-21	1919-20	1918-19
Harbin	6,058	11,468	10,474
Taheiho	4,649	6,585	6,513
Sansing	3,631	4,694	3,677
Lahasusu	3,229	1,885	1,089
Newchwang	3,325	3,230	——
Manchouli	——	——	——

12.—The following comprise the personnel of the Service during the past year:

Dr. Wu Lien Teh, Director and Chief Medical Officer.

Mr. R. C. L. d'Anjou, (Commissioner of Customs) Lay Director and Treasurer.

Dr. J. W. H. Chun, Senior Medical Officer, Harbin.

Dr. R. Pollitzer, Bacteriologist, Harbin.

Dr. Lin Chia Swee, Serologist, Harbin.

Dr. E. B. Young, Senior Medical Officer, Newchwang.

Dr. Tang Tsun Nien, Senior Medical Officer, Taheiho, resigned Sept. 30.

Dr. Shih Chi Liang, Resident Medical Officer, Sansing.

Dr. Y. M. Kwan, Resident Medical Officer, Manchouli.

Dr. Li An, Resident Medical Officer, Manchouli.

Dr. Shih Wei Hua, Resident Medical Officer, Taheiho.

Dr. Li En Chang, Deputy Medical Officer, Lahasusu.

Mrs. Y. C. Y. Cheh, Deputy Female Medical Officer, Taheiho.

Miss N. C. Chung, Senior Nurse, Harbin.

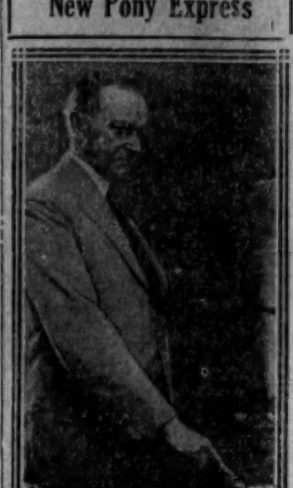
Miss Chu Teai Chen, Senior Nurse, Newchwang.

13.—In conclusion, I wish to express my best thanks to the Chinese Government, Chinese Eastern and South Manchurian Railways for facilities granted me in the prosecution of my work. Our relations with the Japanese, Russian and Soviet medical officers have been of a most cordial nature. I am also indebted to our Customs Officers at various stations in Manchuria for frequent assistance rendered to members of our staff in the course of their duty.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient Servant

(Signed) Wu Lien Teh
Director and Chief Medical Officer.

President Coolidge Starts New Pony Express



By pressing a gold telegraph key in his office in the White House, President Coolidge has started the pony express race from St. Joseph, Mo. to San Francisco. The riders following the trail of the first pony express, are relaying a message from Mr. Coolidge to Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco. The use of the telegraph to start the race gives an idea of modern methods of speed as compared with the style of half a century ago.

HARBOUR NOTIFICATION
No. 23 of 1923.
DREDGING OPERATIONS OFF POOTUNG POINT.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT on or about the 13th instant the bucket dredger "Hai Lung" will commence dredging operations on the Pootung side of the fairway in the vicinity of Pootung Point.

As the position in which the dredger will be working may interfere with the swinging berth at the Garden Bend, Mariners are cautioned when swinging ships to make sure there is sufficient room between the dredger and the Shanghai shore before carrying out this manoeuvre.

The attention of navigators is drawn to Clause 16 of the Harbour Regulations for the Port of Shanghai which provides that:

"Vessels when passing conservancy works in course of construction or conservancy craft engaged in dredging, etc., shall proceed at a slow speed."

The dredger whilst at work will exhibit the usual signals.

Harbour Master.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

December 7, 1923.

Spot bar silver was down 1s. 16d. and forward 1s. 8d. in London yesterday. The New York price is unchanged and the London-New York cross rate declined to 439.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a drop in the Yen rate to 67⅛, a rise in the Rupee rate to 227⅜ and a rise in the Franc rate to 1315.

Our market here was firm in the early part of the day but eased off slightly in the afternoon. Some small business in Sterling was done as high as 3-3⅜ for cash delivery and in Gold Dollars at 73.

There were, however, always good buyers at these rates. At the close there were sellers of Sterling at 3-3⅜ for each. 3-3⅛ December and 3-2⅝ January.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 72½ for near delivery, 71½ December and 70½ for January. There were sellers of Yen at 65¼ for near delivery, 66 for December and 67 for January.

Banks were quoting 3-4⅛ and 74½ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for near delivery.

For January there were buyers at 3-3 and 72. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1360 for near delivery and 1350 for forward.

China sold silver in London yesterday and India bought, the market closing steady. New York also report their market as steady.

Hongkong Shares

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly report on the share market, dated Hongkong, November 30.

There has been a further improvement in the market since last week and a fair amount of business has been put through.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange.—The London price of silver for spot at 33¼d. is 5-16d. higher than this day last week. The quotation for two months forward delivery at 32¾d. is ¼d. up. Our official rate for T. T. on London after touching 3-3⅛d. receded to last week's closing quotation 3-2d. There has again been a demand for cash and our exchange market has consisted largely of Interbank transactions in this connection, from ¾d. to 1d. premium being generally conceded for cash. Forward rates still remain easy at round about 3-1⅜ Feb.-June delivery. There is very little doing in exchange business in connection with Imports or Exports and we closed firm for cash and easy forward. Our stocks of silver have improved and will be further augmented by arrival of silver to the extent of Taels 12,000,000—by about the 20th inst.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 21,127,000 an increase of Tls. 2,354,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $36,570,000 a decrease of $520,000.

Silver Yen, yen 2,130,000.

Estimated value Tls. 44,637,000 as against Tls. 60,715,000 held at this time last year.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton:—During the past week the cotton market has been eventful but with a rather steady undertone in a general way, and although there has been a moderate revival of mill interest, operations of local professionals have also been in evidence. Fluctuations have been irregular and the undertone on the whole has been quite steady, notwithstanding the heavy decline of Mid-Americans and Indians.

We think, therefore, that for the present time there is comparatively little risk in buying cotton conservatively on slight declines, such purchases should prove profitable anyhow.

Yarn:—We have had an easier market during the early part of the week and at the close the undertone was steady. Prices have receded some five to six taels as compared with last week's level. New business for export has been booked, some 6,000 to 7,000 bales in all counts, and over 3,000 bales direct business with the Mills has been recorded. From present indications we look for better markets in the future.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton.—The volume of business in raw cotton during the past week was very small as far as spinners demands are concerned, and the bulk of transactions for spot deliveries were consummated more for exportation than speculative purposes. If the average of prices current during the week is taken into consideration, it becomes prominently indicative of the rates on the local staple having shown an improvement on those prevailing as last reported, notwithstanding the fact of heavy reactions both in Mid-Americans and Indians having been experienced in the interim. The fact of the recently registered heavy declines in both Mid-Americans and Indians not having affected to any extent the values of the domestic growth at this early stage of the season, and at a time when there is but very little financial section, amply serves to corroborate the indications as outlined in our previous circulars, in that the 1923-24 China crop, if it be not less is not larger than that of the last season. Furthermore the considerable supplies being drawn out by our industrious neighbor accentuates the situation for domestic spinners who apparently will bear the consequences of the advantage taken in good time by the Mills in Japan. Our advice to our friends remains unaltered and that is, that purchases on every reaction be not neglected as ultimately such will tend to their benefit. Tone of the Market. Firm.

:-: The Powers Act :-:

AS forecasted in these columns of The China Press yesterday the Powers finally acted at Canton and by landing marines prevented Dr. Sun Yat-sen's contemplated seizure of the offices of the Chinese Maritime Customs located in that city. The news reports regarding the nations which participated in the landing of marines are conflicting, the Eastern News Service report of December 5 stating that there were nine foreign gunboats in the Canton harbor, four British, two French, two American and one Japanese, while Reuter's dispatch of December 6 from Hongkong stated that there were seven foreign gunboats anchored off Shameen, four British, two Japanese and one French. Reuter's report of the landing yesterday said nothing regarding the participation of the American boats in the landing party but probably this will be cleared up in today's dispatches—at least nothing is known here as these lines are being written giving any reasons for the non-participation of the American forces in the operation.

The Powers really had no other alternative after Dr. Sun Yat-sen had issued his statement to the effect that he intended to seize the Customs receipts and divert them to military use in the internal fighting which has been in progress in the Canton area for some time. The action of the Powers in landing marines to prevent his carrying out of the threat can not be construed as an aggression upon China. In simple words, the Powers are merely acting to uphold their recognised treaty rights, in exactly the same manner that Admiral Phelps of the U. S. Yangtsze squadron acted last summer in laying down the principles of American action in respect to the protection of American lives and property in Central and West China. And in this connection it might be well to again quote Admiral Phelps' words:

"Although it is not our policy to interfere in any manner with the political or military affairs of the Chinese people, it is the function of the Yangtsze patrol fully to protect American interests along the river and we intend to fulfil that function at all hazards. The policy is merely the logical carrying out of the well-known, general attitude of the American nation toward China. We derive every course of action from the traditional program of America here to protect American rights and at the same time to help China toward self government. We are jealous of the integrity of China and will attempt under all circumstances strictly to maintain it. Repeated protests to Peking and local officials against the Yangtsze indignities have apparently been fruitless. Up in Szechuen we find that the Chinese military commanders have but a scant idea of the solemn obligations which international law and treaties impose. It has been and is now our aim to impress upon them our attitude of conciliation and good will but also to educate them in so far as we possibly can in what we are entitled to under treaties and the laws of nations."

The above statement by Admiral Phelps was made after it had been found necessary to adopt protective measures in consequence of the firing by uncontrolled soldiery or bandits upon American cargo ships operating on the Upper Yangtsze. Then a little later in connection with the fighting around the city of Changsha in Hunan Province, he issued the further order that in case any shots fell upon the American property in that city that the U. S. Naval patrol boat stationed there had been instructed to return the fire until the Chinese guns were silenced. In taking this stand Admiral Phelps and the American authorities were acting strictly in accordance with the terms of Article XI of the Treaty of 1858 and under international law the foreigners have a right to protection in property and life by the local Chinese authorities. Furthermore they can not be required to leave their places of residence by order of the local authorities, but only by concurrence of the President of the United States. The various insurgent forces in China have not been accorded belligerent rights by the Powers so therefore not having belligerent rights under international law such action as the firing upon foreign property is strictly without legal justification. The contemplated seizure of the Customs at Canton by Dr. Sun Yat-sen was in this same catagory for the foreigners have under the treaties certain rights which they must uphold, otherwise the entire fabric of international law breaks down in the relations of China with the foreign nations.

Under ordinary conditions the dealings of the Powers with China are with the Central Government at Peking in accordance with the treaties, but when the power of the Central Government over the various parts of the country breaks down, then the Powers are required to adopt such other methods as they may find necessary in upholding their treaty rights in the various districts where trouble may arise. And in taking this action they naturally must also keep in mind the provisions of the treaties, the latest being the Nine Power Treaty adopted at the Washington Conference, the preamble of which reads:

"The Contracting Powers .....agree:

(1) To respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China;

(2) To provide the fullest and most unembarassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government;

(3) To use their influence for the purpose of effectually establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations throughout the territory of China;

(4) To refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states, and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such states."

Goat Glands

WE are sure the articles we have been publishing these last two or three days relative to the visit of Dr. Brinkley, the surgeon who is reported to be doing wonders in the matter of rejuvenation by the transplanting of glands from goats to human beings, will have been read with considerable interest. The desire to live long with faculties unimpaired is implanted in every human breast, and while many in health and strength contemplate the inevitableness of death with what amounts almost to unconcern, there is hardly one of us who would not postpone the greatest adventure of life were the opportunity to do so given. Consequently when scientists began to announce that no elixir conveying eternal youth was in prospect, but that rather a surgical operation involving the transference to the human body of glands the functions of which are by no means too generally known, the world was interested. It made a good story for the newspapers and occupied the attention of many conferences of learned savants.

For our part we are still inclined to regard the whole business with an open mind. Frankly we don't like the idea of that by taking glands from a goat we may prolong our usefulness to the world. We would prefer a much more imposing animal, one about which fewer jokes have been made, one possessing some sort of dignity which the goat undoubtedly has not.

But, to recover from our digression; it must be within the memory of many the theory that by a dietary containing a substantial proportion of specially soured milk, after the Bulgarian manner, poisons accumulating towards eventual death could be eliminated from the system, with a consequent prolongation of life. If proof were wanted, the fact that the Bulgarian peasantry who consumed large quantities of this soured milk, lived to ripe old age was taken as positive, regardless of the entirely different surroundings in which they lived from those who were to believe, such benefits would accrue to them from a similar use.

With the advent of considerable research into the glandular system of the human body, and the necessary experimentation, results are claimed to have been achieved whereby deficiency in the operation of certain glands has been remedied by the substitution of glands from some other animal, just as spare parts would be inserted into a motor car. That slightly beneficial results have been obtained seems almost certain but there has not been sufficient time between the announcement of the discovery and the ordinarily probable dates of the deaths of those who have undergone the treatment to justify any assumption that this newly discovered treatment has indeed any effect on the prolongation of life. Dean Tobias makes no claim of a complete rejuvenescence, the regaining of the aspect of youth. Rather does he claim an increase in "pep," a little improvement of his eyesight a surer step and a general feeling of youth. The improvement was not apparently of an ephemeral nature and lasted through many months, but there is nothing to show that the Dean's life has been prolonged in any way, though if it has made his declining years more enjoyable, it would be a hardy man indeed who would argue that the results did not justify the operation.

Time and a very large number of such operations can alone prove what justification there is for present hopes in the discovery, and if they should be proved to be correct it is an open question whether mankind as a whole would be any the better for it. For while undoubtedly it might tend to keep in our midst, for longer periods of activity, brains to which we already owe so much, it might also inflict upon us many lives the world could very well be without. For this reason it would seem that some sort of tribunal should be established in the event of this discovery effecting all that is claimed for it, to decide who should be supplied with goat glands and who should not. It would give us a new aim in life, a species of litigation to decide who should predecease us.

But nothing is said about the goat. His feelings in the matter are not to be considered, and in the future it is going to be harder to be a goat than it ever was in the past.

The Korniloff Affair

LEADERS will remember that a few days ago we commented on the decision of the Ministry of Justice to apply death sentences on Russians in Harbin where the facts would justify the Chinese Courts in proceeding to extreme measures. On that occasion the point which we sought to establish was that it amounted to discriminatory legislation and as such was obnoxious. We did not dream for one moment that such a ruling was to be made retrospective and that criminals who have been in jail in Harbin over extended periods and who in the ordinary course should have been tried and sentenced long ere now, would supply the first victim of the new measure.

We refer to the report that the notorious Korniloff has been sentenced to pay the extreme penalty for his misdeeds. We would rather have had some other case on which to make the point we are endeavoring to make in this instance, but disregarding the question as to whether or no Korniloff deserves to die, and there appears little doubt that he does, the injustice of bringing him under a ruling which should never have been applied to him is too apparent to need much elaboration. Korniloff has been in jail for months. While standing his trial in the early part of the year for those alleged offences which brought him within the scope of the law, he effected a dramatic escape from the Court room in the course of which he undoubtedly added other murders to those alleged against him.

He was apprehended again and has languished in jail since June or July. In the meantime the Harbin Court having made the necessary representations to the Ministry of Justice, obtained permission to inflict the death penalty and proceed at once to apply it to a man, who if he had been given anything in the nature of that expeditious trial which he would have the right to expect in most other countries, would certainly have been given some other sentence than that of death. None of Korniloff's offences was apparently capital at the time of its commission, and there appears little justice in the fact that by reason of subsequent legislation he is to be made to suffer pains and penalties not contemplated when he was originally brought to trial.

That Korniloff is a desperado of the worst possible type, and that in other countries he would certainly have been condemned to die, does not affect the present argument. No matter what his offence, equity demands that he should be punished in accordance with the law at the time of the commission of his wrongful acts and if this were so, Korniloff would not now be under sentence of death. This first essay in the exercise of full criminal rights over an offender is unfortunate in the extreme, for apart from the unpleasant aspect of discrimination to which we have already referred, there is added this retrospective element which is repugnant to all sense of justice.

The law cannot and should not be amended for the purpose of dealing with a single set of circumstances, but it is difficult to overcome the impression that the representations made to the Ministry of Justice, were more for the purpose of dealing effectively with Korniloff, than establishing a ruling to stand on general principles. If indeed this be so the whole affair places the Harbin Courts and the Ministry in no particularly favorable light. Had the former carried out its functions with that dispatch to be expected of it, Korniloff would have been serving some other sentence by now, instead of awaiting the infliction of a punishment outside the contemplation of any of those connected with the case when it first came under the notice of the authorities.

GOAT GLANDS

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir: I quite agree with the professional opinion of Shanghai physicians and surgeons whom your Mr. Larry Lehrbas interviewed yesterday concerning the alleged benefits of goat glands as stimulants to life. I have read considerably on the subject and I have yet to find a reputable orthodox surgeon who contends that such operations are of any use whatever.

Dr. Brinkley's arrival in Shanghai and the fact that he is going to perform operations here, however, is only a minor consideration compared to the big fact that in Shanghai no medical license is required. In truth almost anyone claiming a knowledge of medicine or surgery can practice in Shanghai. It is a wellknown fact that numerous Chinese who have had only a short training course in hospitals have set themselves up as doctors and in some cases are said to have performed major operations!

In considering the question of the sale of poisons the Municipal Council has an excellent opportunity to delve into this question. Is it not possible for the Council to demand that before an alleged doctor, dentist or oculist practices in Shanghai that he be required to pass an examination before a body of accredited men of his own profession?

Only in that way can quackery and humbugging be done away with.

I am,
GLANDICUSS.

A NEW WAY OF BRINGING UP CHILDREN

"Only a thought, but the work it wrought
Could never by tongue or pen be taught,
But it ran through a life like a thread of gold,
And the life bore fruit a hundredfold."

Not long ago there was on exhibition in New York a young horse which can do most marvelous things: and yet his trainer says that only five years ago he had a very bad disposition. He was fractious, and would kick and bite, but now instead of displaying his former viciousness, he is obedient, tractable, and affectionate. He can readily count and reckon up figures, can spell many words, and knows what they mean.

In fact this horse seems to be capable of learning almost anything. Five years of kindness has completely transformed the vicious yearling colt. He is very responsive to kindness, but one can do nothing with him by whipping or scolding him. His trainer says that in all the five years he has never touched him with a whip but once.

I know a mother of a large family of children who has never whipped but one of them, and that one only once.

When her first child was born people said she was too good-natured to bring up children, that she would spoil them, as she would not correct or discipline them, and would do nothing but love them. But this love has proved the great magnet which has held the family together in a marvelous way. Not one of those children has gone astray. They have all grown up manly and womanly, and love has been wonderfully developed in their natures. Their own affection responded to the mother's love and has become their strongest motive. Today all her children look upon "Mother" as the grandest figure in the world. She has brought out the best in them because she saw the best in them. The worst did not need correcting or repressing, because the expulsive power of a stronger affection drove out of their nature or discouraged the development of vicious tendencies which, in the absence of a great love, might have become dominant and ruined the life.

Love is a healer, a life-giver, a balm for our hurts. All through the Bible are passages which show the power of love as a healer and life-lengthener, "With long life will I satisfy him," said the Psalmist, "because he hath set his love upon me."

When shall we learn that the great curative principle is love, that love heals because it is harmony? There can be no discord where it reigns. Love is serenity, is peace and happiness.

Love is the great disciplinarian, the supreme harmonizer, the true peacemaker. It is the great balm for all that blights happiness or breeds discontent, a sovereign panacea for malice, revenge, and all the brutal propensities. As cruelty melts before kindness, so the evil passions find their antidote in sweet charity and loving sympathy.

The mother is the supreme shaper of life and destiny.

Many a mother's love for her children has undoubtedly stayed the ravages of some fatal disease. Her conviction that she was necessary to them and her great love for them have braced her, and have enabled her to successfully cope with the enemies of her life for a long time.

One mother I know seems to have the magical art of curing nearly all the ills of her children by love. If any member of the family has any disagreeable experience, is injured or pained, hurt or unhappy, he immediately goes to the mother for the universal balm, which heals all troubles.

This mother has a way of drawing the troubled child out of discord into the zone of perpetual harmony. If he is swayed by jealousy, hatred, or anger, she applies the love solvent, the natural antidote for these passion poisons. She knows that scolding a child when he is already suffering more than he can bear is like trying to put out a fire with kerosene.

Our orphan asylums give pathetic illustration of how quickly the child mind matures and ages prematurely without the uplift and enrichment of the mother love, the mother sympathy, parental protection and home influence.

It is well known that children who lose their parents and are adopted by their grandparents and live in the country, where they do not have an opportunity to mingle much with other children, adopt the manners and mature vocabulary of their elders, for they are very imitative, and become little men and women before they are out of their youth.

Editorial Comments

What the "Daily Mail" rightly describes as a "craz scheme to wreck British credit" is the growing agitation in England in favor of inflation as means of restoring prosperity. Respectable leaders of British commerce advocate a cessation of deflation, but numbers of practical Englishmen have only advocated inflation. Another winter of unemployment is already frightening many economists in Great Britain, and the conviction is growing among them that all that is necessary to change the color of the whole picture is to start a scheme of free and easy credit expansion. The proposal to get out of the present British difficulties by inflating the pound sterling is of an extremely dangerous and insidous character, and we have great enough faith in the British statesmen to think that they will not swallow the new-tangled dose.

The basis of the new theory of inflation is the hypothesis the unemployment is due no the restriction of credit. This is certainly false reasoning, and it is interesting to see how a certain school of economists in London is trying to explain this theory by inaccurate examinations of the periodicity of trade fluctuations. We could not offer this school a better example of the kind of prosperity that inflation tends to develop than Germany. Surely, with such a glaring illustration before them the British people should see the suicidal nature of the plan that it is proposed to thrust upon the country. The prosperity that inflation can generate is only artificial, as it proved in the case of the German people after the Great War. It is not necessary to go into great detail on the ridiculous nature of the scheme. The plan is, in short, that there should be a printing of artificial money to the amount of a hundred million pounds sterling, and this is to steady prices and cure unemployment. The most dangerous part of the plan is the power that a band of officials will receive to tamper with the value of the pound by printing notes.

There is no doubt that the blight of unemployment is eating into the heart of the country. It is growing more serious, so much so that the British Premier, Mr. Baldwin, had to take the costly step of going before the country with a Protectionist policy simply as a panacea for the unemployment evils of Great Britain today. The British will find to their cost, if they attempt it, that building prosperity on the sands of inflation is a mighty dangerous makeshift.

Traveling Too Young

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Being in western Europe during the past Summer, I found occasion to observe and reflect upon the effects of foreign travel as an influence, or force, in the education of youth. My impression is that it is not good for children in general. My own first trips abroad were made after I had reached middle life, and I have been able to contrast their mental effects with those produced upon the minds of children in their teens, great and increasing numbers of whom are now taken to Europe by their parents, or even entrusted to the guidance of the leaders of tourist parties.

Travel among the historic cities and sites of the Old World, surrounded by masterpieces of all the arts that successive phases of civilization have developed during many centuries, furnishes, next to the everyday experiences of active life, the best "post-graduate" education. But it is only fully effective when it literally is post-graduate, i. e., when it is undertaken by those who have been through the ordinary educational courses of the schools and colleges of their native land.

Suppose, for instance, that you are going to Italy. I have seen young boys taken to Italy, in whose faces and manners it was easily perceived, that they were becoming blase (mentally blunted) to the most useful influences that a visit to the land of the mother of modern history is capable of exercising.

Historically "all roads lead to Rome." Italy is crammed from end to end with monuments, memorials, relics, suggestions, which give life and meaning to two thousand years of the most intense human activity. But one doesn't understand these things, or derive sufficient benefit from them, unless he sees them after his mind has been prepared by preliminary study of the subjects that they stand for. With such preparation the trip becomes an education more fascinating than a fairy tale; without it, only an excursion, entertaining on account of certain novelties, which soon pall.

It is sometimes claimed that taking children abroad early in their lives makes them more "cosmopolitan" in mind and character. What it really does is to make them more nebulous in mind and character. Their attention is scattered over too many uncomprehended, or half comprehended, things covering too wide a field. The ripe man who goes to see the world becomes the wiser for it; youth who has already seen the world is apt to believe that he has circumambulated wisdom; though he as certainly not corraled it.

One evil consequence of traveling too young is that the youthful voyager dulls his future appreciation of things that he cannot at present properly value, but which later would have impressed his more instructed mind with their full force. A young boy taken into the Roman Forum is incapable, even though he may have read a history primer, of feeling the sentiments, or summoning the thoughts and memories that come with educative power, to the mature visitor, who has pored over Gibbon, Tacitus, Livy, and the other historians' works. Nevertheless he may, by the indifferent impressions bred from his too early visit, destory the charm.

The modern Romans, born in the presence of the Forum, the Colosseum, the Pantheon, and the ruins on the Capital hill, do not obtain from the same impressive effect as that made on the mind of the adult student coming from a foreign land, and especially from across the ocean, whose konwledge of the history enacted here awaits the presence of these scenes to become truly vivified.

scenes to become truly vivified.

I would not send a boy to Rome, or to Athens, or to any foreign country, to study history; I would have him study it at home in our own schools, and then send him to the lands where its actors trod the stage, that there he might renew and mature his knowledge, and find the full enjoyment and benefit of it. What applies to the history applies also to the art, the scenery and the society of the old world. Let the young Americans get the basis of their education at home, so that they may never lose the American point of view when they go abroad.

:-: The Spectator :-:

The Conquest Of The Terrible

The race of mankind appeared upon this planet as a frightened child. Primitive man saw himself surrounded by vast forces which threatened his existence, forces he in no way comprehended. They were to him sources of terror.

The progress of humanity has been along the direction of the conquest of the terrible. There is a Japanese saying which groups the Four Terrible Things as follows: Earthquake, Thunder, Fire and Father.

This is a poetic expression, not of things evil, but of things that cause fear. The earthquake, thunder and fire are the dread forces of Nature, while father stands for the dread of those in authority.

Among almost all early peoples autocracy began in the family. Authority was understood only in its crudest form of absolutism. Among the Koreans a member of the ruling class could slay a slave in the street and his act would not be questioned. The early kings of every nation had the power of life and death. Still earlier in history the father had this life and death authority over members of his family.

All civilization has advanced by conquering these fears. Yet the fear helped progress, and without the fear there would have been no challenge to mankind to go forward.

Electricity, of which thunder is the speaking symbol, is at present of enormous value to the race. More and more the wheels of industry are being turned by it. But for long ages it was no more than a terror, a thing that rumbled in the sky and with inexplicable caprice hurled its bolt of destruction to the earth.

It is by the progress of science, which is simply another name for knowledge, that we have climbed out of our dark fear and learned how to use both thunder and fire for our comfort and advantage.

We have not yet learned how to use earthquakes. Scientists, however, are carefully studying them and perhaps in time we may find out something else to do with them than merely to dread and dodge them. Just as primitive men considered the lightning to be the thunderbolt of Jove, and fire to be some kind of a devouring god, so the early Japanese explained earthquakes upon the theory that their island rested upon the back of a giant catfish. This fish was held down by the pressure of a great pivot stone, which is yet pointed out to visitors. It is at Kajima, which is supposed to be the one stable point in Japan; all the rest of the island is occasionally disturbed by the wrigglings of the head and tail of the restless catfish. To say the truth, there are occasional tremors felt at Kajima, but we must not inspect traditions too closely.

The progress of democracy in the world has been toward the comprehension and limitation of authority, just as the progress of of invention and industry has been due to the mastering of electricity and fire.

Human society cannot exist without some kind of authority, and all of our experiments in government, our wars and revolutions, have efforts toward ridding authority of its destructive nature and bringing it into some sort of usefulness to mankind.

All early religions were terrible. The goods were hostile forces or personalities to be appeased by sacrifice. And all the ethical progress of the world has been toward making the god idea contribute toward the health, sanity, order and welfare of the human race, and not operating capriciously for its destruction.

Sense And Nonsense

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

A French agriculturist has discovered a new kind of earth that will make vegetables and flowers come up so fast that they get growing pains.

This stuff is so strong that it makes century plants bloom twice a month.

One guy planted some asparagus and it came up so quickly that it hit him in the nose.

He planted a lot of garlic one night and the next morning it was full grown. It grew so fast that it got all out of breath.

This same fellow sowed some cucumbers one evening and two minutes after he turned his back they were chasing him into the house.

The corn was coming up so suddenly that he had to tie it to the ground.

It got so bad that he was forced to sprinkle coffee on it to stunt its growth.

He planted potatoes after dinner one night and they came up so early the next morning that their eyes weren't even open.

It's nice to be able to raise vegetables in such a hurry, but there's no sense in tiring them out.

When you plant asparagus you don't want it to come to the top and in the morning it comes to the kitchen door looking for you.

This ought to be good news to the produce merchants. The quicker the farmers grow the vegetables, the faster the dealers can raise the prices.

The growers do all the tilling, sowing and reaping for us. The only thing the consumers have to dig up is the money.

Father plants it in his pockets at night but mother doesn't give it a chance to sprout.

How can she expect a five-dollar bill to grow when she pulls it up by the roots?

This magic earth is a great thing for romantic fellows. A man can start calling on his girl in the evening, plant some rose seeds in a jar and raise them on his way down to her house.

They'll be in full bloom and ready to pick by the time he gets off the street car.

Mothers ought to take the tip and let their children play in this kind of mud. A little boy two years old would be a grown man by the time he was five.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned, by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D.,
Chicago, Ill.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D.,
Omaha, Neb.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and effective laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is good for children and I freely prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D.,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D.,
St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D.,
Kansas City, Mo.

British Women's Association Notes

SECTION ACTIVITIES

The At Home which is to be given in honor of Dame Adelaide Anderson D. B. E., who has done so much to improve the conditions of factory labor in England, will be held at Headquarters on Monday next, December 10, at 4:30 p.m. and all members are invited to attend.

This section has arranged a delightful "Lucky Dip" bag for Monday next at Headquarters, which will contain all the attractive things left over from this artistic stall at the Fayre and a host of additional beautiful articles which have been made since.

There will be two dips allowed for a dollar and as the articles put in greatly exceed in value this small sum, it is a unique opportunity of getting Xmas presents at little cost.

XMAS DINNER FOR THE MERCANTILE MARINE

The British Women's Association is giving a dinner to the men of the Mercantile Marine who are in port on Xmas day and the Executive Commitee would be very grateful if members would kindly send their gifts of plum puddings, sweets, crackers, etc. or donations of money to help towards making this a really festive occasion for those men whose calling has taken them so far from home at this season of the year. All gifts of money and kind should be sent to the Hanbury Institute c/o The Rev. T. W. Hall.

FOREIGN RELIEF COMMITTEE

Refugees still come from Japan seeking relief in the form of money and clothing and now a letter has come from Yokohama in which the Secretary of the Foreign Relief Committee there, asks for more warm clothing for the benefit of the poorer residents in that port, who will otherwise have to face the rigors of the approaching winter insufficiently clad. Parcels of clothing are gratefully acknowledged from the following:

The Foreign Residents Committee, Nanking, Miss Elwyn, Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. McMeekin.

Employment is required for 1 pianist from the Imperial Hotel Orchestra, 1 Exporting and Shipping Clerk and 2 Bank Clerks, all from the earthquake zone and out of employment through no fault of their own.

MUSICAL SECTION

Japanese Artists To Hold Display At New Carlton

An exhibition of Japanese water colors of more than usual interest opens today at the New Carlton at 12 noon. Two artists, Mr. Takeo Hirai and Mr. Banka Maruyama, members of the Nippon Water-Color Society, have been commissioned by their society to display their works and those of their co-members in the society, in Shanghai, for the benefit of Japanese artists who suffered in the recent catastrophe.

More than 600 water colors, representing the best work of the most prominent of present-day Japanese artists will be hung in the New Carlton on the lower and upper floor. The exhibition will continue through Saturday afternoon, and for three days thereafter.

The money obtained from the purchase of the water colors which will be offered for sale throughout the exhibition, will be devoted to the benefit of needy Japanese artists and for general relief where needed in Japan.

Brown Sues Owner Of Crest Alleging Broken Contract

Mr. Lloyd E. Brown, owner of the Wintergarden Cafe, and formerly manager of The Crest, sued Mr. Frank Hyde, owner of the Crest, for $2,666 as the result of an alleged broken contract, in the British Supreme Court before Judge Peter Grain yesterday.

Mr. Brown alleged that his contract with the Crest was broken by Mr. Hyde because of a dispute in which Mrs. Brown and a Russian girl were engaged. The Russian girl, he alleges, was installed in Mr. Hyde's home on the very day that the late Mrs. Hyde died of smallpox, and Mr. Hyde's desire to get rid of him came because Mrs. Brown did not care to associate with the Russian girl, refused to attend Mrs. Hyde's funeral in her company, and became involved in other disagreements with her.

At one time, Mr. Brown testified, Mr. Hyde had made the threat that he had a pair of brass-knuckles for Mrs. Brown if she didn't like the way things were going, and then hired another man, obstensibly as a chit collector, who gradually usurped Mr. Brown's duties as manager.

MOVIE THRILLER

On June 17, it was disclosed in the evidence, Mrs. Brown and the Russian girl got into an argument and Mr. Brown escorted his wife upstairs and locked her in her room to guard against a fight. She escaped by sliding down a swing she made out of sheets knotted together and was attacked by the Russian girl with a cane.

It was such incidents, Mr. and Mrs. Brown both testified, that caused Mr. Hyde to break the contract Brown had to manage the Crest, and not through any inefficiency on Mr. Brown's part. In cross-examination Mr. Brown admitted that he had dickered with Mr. Hyde to buy the Crest for $10,000 and that he had been unable to put the deal through after putting up a deposit, but denied that he had severed relationships on his own accord after his failure. At the present time, he said, he was running the Wintergarden in Ningpo Road and doing very well. The case was adjourned.

Tea Musicale Held At Y.W.C.A. House

The regular Friday afternoon "musical tea" at the foreign hostess house of the Y.W.C.A. in Yuen Ming Yuen road was given yesterday afternoon before an enthusiastic audience of American and British women resident here.

These musical teas, supplying as they do a long-felt need, are attracting unusual attention from the young business women about town who, because of the conflict of their hours with the hours selected for regular club musical programs by the American Women's Club and the B.W.A., are attending these Y.W.C.A. teas in large numbers. The B.W.A. and the A.W.C. alternate their own artists at the Y.W.C.A. rooms, so that Shanghai business women who are unable to attend the musicales at the club rooms may hear the same artists in the hostess house of the Y.W.C.A. on Friday afternoons.

Yesterday was B.W.A. day. Among the artists who made up the attractive program were Mrs. Barclay, pianist, who played a Chopin Nocturne and Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words;" Mrs. McMeekin, who was heard in a group of songs, "Don't Hurry," "Bird Lullaby," and "Harlequin:" Miss E. Johnson who gave several violin solos; Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. McNicholl.

Next Friday, the American Women's Club music section will arrange the program. Tea is served after the music.

Baild New Hotel On Nanking Road

Hardoon for 32 years, will begin next month, it was said yesterday. Plans for the new structure, which will be 8 stories, have been drawn by Mr. C. H. Gonda, the architect, and call for a strictly modern, fireproof building.

Shriners Smoker On Next Tuesday

Himrod, chairman of the entertainment committee, is reported to have several pleasant surprises for the elect at the affair.
